[REDACTED] FRATERNITY PLEDGE MASTER DEVASTATED AT RECENT UNIVERSITY HAZING REPORT

The newest University Judiciary Committee report is reprinted below as originally written:

Following an investigation, the University found sufficient evidence to support that [REDACTED] engaged in the following hazing behaviors:

New members were coerced or forced to engage in lineups during the evening hours in the chapter house basement. During such lineups:

- Connecting With Ancestors: New members had to recreate Stonehenge on Mad Bowl using ethically sourced stone
- Holding Our.... Horse-and-buggy pledge claimed that he insisted on pulling a brother in a wagon wherever he pleased.
- Eerily similar: One new member was designated Penny-farthing pledge because he looked like PeeWee Herman
- Compliment circle: New members trained in exchanging thoughtful and considerate compliments
- I feel confused on why we are doing this: New members forced to communicate using "I feel" statements
- Bricked Up: New members were forced to lay bricks and hone their stone masonry skills up to par with World Heritage restoration guidelines
- HOLD THE LINE: New members contemplated gradually more complex versions of the Trolley Problem
- Now this one is too far: New members forced to read Cavalier Daily Humor and feign laughter until believable

While this report shocked many students at the University, Fraternity Pledge Master Mike Ropenis was particularly upset. He reached out to us directly to give a statement:

"MAN, after all of that, the University completely BOTCHED this report. They missed our GREATEST hits! I mean, the The arm-breaking thing? The fish swallowing thing? The acid floorboards thing? And worst of all, they didn't even publish my magnum opus." When pressed for further comment, Ropenis screamed the words, "Pledge Torture Party?!" We attempted to continue the interview, but Mr. Ropenis repeatedly told us he needed "some time to calm down" and to "edit his manifesto." After much consoling and a pacifying Zyn, we were able to resume the questions.

"That one is literally my fucking legacy, dude. It was separated thematically by country and era- I played homage to the CIA and everything. There goes all the buttons I made in the Maker Station! What's the point of even having a hazing report, if they're not going to talk about the good shit."

The Yellow Journal, upon investigation, found a folder entitled "The Good Shit that [REDACTED] Frat Did" sitting on a University desk. We assured Mr. Ropenis not to worry about being forgotten. The University is clearly aware of his legacy. Sadly, they just get really, really confused, because [REDACTED] changed their name to [EDACTEDRAY], and all the members walk around wearing glasses and mustaches. Too bad there aren't entire laws and task forces in place to make sure this knowledge is public.

Although this organization has members who are University of Virginia students and may have University employees associated or engaged in its activities and affairs, the organization is not a part of or an agency of the University. It is a separate and independent organization which is responsible for and manages its own activities and affairs. The University does not direct, supervise or control the organization and is not responsible for the organization's contracts, acts or omissions.

OPINION: JIM RYAN IS ACTUALLY PRETTY COOL IF YOU GIVE HIM THE CHANCE, GUYS.

By: Jim Ryan Anonymous Student

My fellow students,

I wanted to, as a student, here, at UVA, in the School of College, take the opportunity to use the space that the Yellow Journal has so graciously and definitely willingly given me to let you all know that that Jim Ryan guy? He's actually...pretty cool. Once you give him the chance—maybe get to know him a little bit before you judge him. In fact, I'd venture to say that we probably ask too much of him. It's like, every day, all I hear is "May 4th" this and "brutalized student protestors" that, but have we ever stopped to remember that this guy has feelings? As a student that goes here—I want to clear up some rumors.

Number one: Stop spreading the rumor that ~~I~~ he was cast in a remake of The 40 Year Old Virgin. It wasn't funny the first time, and it's not funny now. I have it on very good authority, from anonymous sources, that one James E. Ryan fucks. Like a god. Hung like a hog. And boy oh boy, does he fuck well and frequently. And the woman thoroughly enjoys it. Every time. He knows where the thing is, and rest assured, she is always satisfied. I can only imagine how it must feel to have such heinous rumors floating around when they are FALSE and NOT FUNNY. Shame on you all.

Number two: He is NOT what would happen if Pippi Longstocking's cuckish younger brother made a wish on a star to become a real boy.

This never happened, and is NOT TRUE. I'm very certain about this one, folks— I just wish not to disclose my sources. Journalistic integrity, you get it.

Number three: Stop saying he makes his policy decisions by asking himself "What Would Ellen DeGeneres Do?" Jim forms his own well thought-out and rightfully informed opinions based on what is right. He spends a lot of time thinking about these things. She is not his moral compass and it's ridiculous to keep insisting on that.

The point is— please stop being so mean to me my friend Jim. Yeah, sure, he makes over $900,000 a year, but like, most of that isn't liquid, probably. It's tied up in stocks and escrow and shit. You wouldn't get it, and if you disagree, you're probably a virgin. And, like— I hear he can do a sick-ass kickflip on a really cool adult-sized skateboard. So...yeah. Next time, think before you speak— Also guys... do you think we could maybe get the nickname Big Jim-Bo going? I feel like it would fit him well.

OTHER PEOPLE'S COMPUTING ID'S ARE NORMAL, BUT WHY IS MINE EAT6GOD@VIRGINIA.EDU?

The "arbitrary" characters and numbers that create your computing ID might look something like uhg5de@virginia.edu, but for a select few of us, these ID's are...rather abnormal. The University suggests that they're the product of a randomly generated algorithm and that they carry no colloquial significance, but my buddy's ID, which is bad7boi@virginia.edu, is an evident contradiction to the University's statement. If you've been wondering the real reason why the AFC staff always laughs whenever you show your ID to get in, this might be why:

1. You're a loser. Losers get weird IDs, that's just how it works.
2. The "algorithm" tends to give "normal" ID's to liberals who watch anime. If you aren't a liberal who watches anime you might have an abnormal ID. If not: eat-it you weeb.
3. Maybe you paid for one, like a custom license plate.
4. Somebody in power wants you to fail (probably some administrator who hates your parents).

It's no surprise that abnormal comp ID's are a handicap, and that those who have them are probably among the most persecuted people on Grounds. But don't fret my brothers and sisters. We will organize and rebel. Soon we'll have these "normal" comp ID's by throat and begging for our mercy.

YJ EXPOSES: WHO IS BANNED FROM TRIN AND WHY?

Recently, Trinity Irish Pub – geographically recognized as Trinity on the Corner, and colloquially known as "Trin" – released its much-anticipated 'banned list.' They threatened to sue if we published it, but they can't serve us court papers if they don't know who we are! At least we think...

The following incidents are strictly against Trinity Irish Pub's Code of Ethics and Human Rights. The offenders of these actions are hereby banned from Trinity Irish Pub and all of its related business ventures, including but not limited to: Coupe's, Boylan Heights, UVA Hospital, and The Flats.

1. Got bored in line, played Red Rover with the bouncers
2. Snuck a baby in; secret revealed when they asked the bar back for a highchair
3. Played Charlie Charlie pencil challenge with straws and accidentally summoned a demon on Trin 3
4. Used real 21+ ID
5. Left banana peel on the top of the steps from 2 to 1, took 15 people down in one sweep
6. Man who got a Dirty Shirley thought he qualified for women's bathroom that day
7. Wall twerked and broke that oddly placed mirror
8. SHIT ON TRIN 3 DUH
9. Started a game of water polo in the five inches of water covering the women's bathroom floor
10. Used a meal exchange to pay for a Michelob Ultra. Did you know we have that now?
11. Went fishin' over the edge of the Tralcony
12. Did not realize how incestuous the bars on The Corner are; now banned from half of them
13. Initiated a fox hunt; let loose 15-20 foxhounds on Trin 2
14. Used priceless 14th-century Ming Dynasty vase as a vessel for a Trashcan. Only $6 this weekend!
15. Broke priceless 14th-century Ming Dynasty vase
16. Attempted to salvage priceless 14th-century Ming Dynasty vase
17. Said "Trinstagram" more than once

BOUNCERS ON CORNER UNIONIZE, CREATE ECONOMIC CARTEL

THE CORNER – After being unable to meet their "personal financial enrichment" targets, bouncers have taken drastic action. Inspired by the leadership of pro-union President Biden and their introduction to Microeconomics notes that they finally read over, these bouncers have taken a unique approach to bouncing this problem. Many are citing that after their establishments have started charging $31 for a double rum-and-coke, first years no longer have the expendable capital necessary to put $15 in ones behind their underage IDs.

"I really didn't think it would come to this," says 4th year Marcus Robinson, Trin bouncer, working at Guggenheim Partners, making $170,000 per year after graduation. "But after bouncing 200-400 first years, watching an inspirational Instagram Reel, and getting trashed every weekend for 52 weeks, I decided that I'd had enough. It was time for changes in this arcane capitalist system." He helped organize the bouncers at Trinity Irish Pub, a famed local establishment known for its casual vibe and edible food. Bouncers at Trinity Irish Pub were once one of the most respected professionals in Charlottesville, but dropped off the top 50 when Coupe's opened back up. It's been desolate times for the poor guys at Trin. They've had to accept bribes from second-years, like little peasant children begging for pennies on the street.

UVA Administration had no comment, besides their one comment. They said "The UVA administration is very excited to have another union around in Charlottesville. We're happy to work with them on any issues, besides pay, working conditions, payroll issues, job security, medical benefits, safety, and paid time off." While bouncers have historically not been paid by UVA, the administration is looking to expand into education-related markets, such as drinking.

A NOTE FROM THE EDITOR

Hey, person reading this. Yeah, you. You may be thinking, what the fuck is this bullshit? I'm not hungry for bullshit right now. This sucks. Or you may be thinking: Fuck. I love the Yellow Journal. I live for this bullshit. You're excited! You eat bullshit like this for breakfast. Regardless of your stance on bullshit, I have one thing to say to you: Good On You.

You read that right! Good. On. You. You're probably sitting there in the library, flipping through this instead of studying for your finals. Look around. You're not alone. And really, what's the harm? Your class, Orgo? Oh No!: Depictions of Organic Chemistry in Modern Media, is... let's call it what it is. It's stupid, you know? It's boring. You feel stupid for taking it. You should. You'll take anything for entertainment at this point. And so you decided to open the Yellow Journal. Let's give ourselves a pat on our backs! Can we? When was the last time you read something? For FUN? Wow. Look at you. Consuming art. Round of applause, for our fearless students. You're doing a great job.

If you're an English major though, stop this. We know you read Jonathan Swift in English 3001 with Bruce Holsinger and you think you're an expert on satire. We're a little shocked you're reading this because you can't rate it on Goodreads. Yeah, I bet you love Goodreads. You're sick. Sick in the head. We retract the pat that we suggested you do. You should be here without being asked.

Oh but we hope to God there's a Kinesiology major out there reading this. Not for any particular reason. We just wanted to say, quite frankly, we're fans of ligaments, tendons, cadaver labs, etc. Keep doing what you do.

Environmental science majors...sigh. I know that this print issue goes against all that you are. We know, okay? Don't look at us like that. Stop! We actually talked to the tree that died for this issue, and he thought it was pretty funny. He died for our cause! Do you want him to die in vain?

Studying WGS? We're sheepishly giggling that you're here right now.

And if you're a STEM major, congrats on reading anything! We're holding out hope that our well-thought-out jokes don't overwhelm your sixth-grade-level reading comprehension, and god willing, you have enough media literacy to understand that we write satire (which means we make fun of people—yes, even you—and don't necessarily report true events)..

And finally, shout out Aquariuses. We see you. We love you. Hang in there, queen

We know you think we're "cringe". We get it. Hell, we are! W? But when's the last time you dropped your guard, and embraced enjoying something? Caution to the wind, freak flag flying, just full-heartedly having a good time. Is it cringe to make your friends laugh? Is it cringe to CARE?! That's no way to live, man. Who are you worried about? We only get to go through this world once, probably. Make it count!

And yeah. Just wanted to say thank you for reading. Think of this as a little kiss on your cheek. Or a little bit of a dribble in a golden shower.
